There are ~~no~~ qualifications for being saved. The Pharisees knew the scriptures tithed, fasted, prayed. There are good church members today that know the Bible that don't miss church, that pray, some even fast, don't cheat on their wives, pay their taxes, don't smoke or drink or very seldom curse, but like the Pharisees have rejected the Savior, because of ignorance. It reminds me of a story of a minister who died & went to heaven, but found St. Peter at the gate. Asking to come in St. Peter said he needed 100 pts. to get in and what had he done. Well, I pastored one of the largest churches on the earth. worth 1 pt. I started 4 orphanages in the community. worth 1 pt. I fed 15,000 homeless people every Thanksgiving & Christmas, worth 1 pt. If it wasn't for GRACE, no one would get in. That's worth

The steps of a good man are ordered by the Lord; and he delighteth in his way.
